TRENTO SUMMER SCHOOL ON ADVANCED EU COMPETITION LAW AND ECONOMICS

The second edition of the Summer School will take place in Moena (Italian Dolomites) from 12th to 18th June 2016.

The Summer School is organised by the Osservatorio Permanente sull' Applicazione delle Regole di Concorrenza based at the Faculty of Law of Trento University ("Osservatorio Antitrust").

It is co-directed by Gian Antonio Benacchio and Michele Carpagnano.

The course offers a unique opportunity to analyse and study EU Competition Law and Economics at an advanced level.

This advanced course combines academic studies with a pragmatic approach to the application of competition rules.

The academic program is designed to cover both substantive and procedural aspects of EU Competition Law with practical sessions (complaints, compliance programs, leniency applications and estimation of antitrust damages and demonstrations (dawn-raids and EU General Court proceedings). There will also be two workshops on hot topics in EU Competition Law and Economics, two keynote speeches on powers, functioning and guarantees of Competition Authorities and a Cocktail-talk on Digital Economy & Competition Law. A new feature of the second edition is a round-table where the Presidents of the Italian, French, Luxembourg, Spanish and Basque Competition Authorities will discuss on key issues and new developments of Competition Law enforcement in the EU.

PARTICIPANTS

The Summer School is addressed to graduates, practitioners (lawyers, in-house counsels, economists and managers), judges, officials of Competition Authorities, and other national and international organisations. The official language of the Summer School is English.

ACADEMIC PROGRAM

Historical foundations and their relevance today

The historical foundations of competition law are essential to understand the current legal framework. The workshop will present the main aspects of the evolution of competition law in the EU since its origins. The workshop will also consider the goals of competition law and the methods applied by public authorities to pursue these goals, as applied in the last century and today. Moreover, the main theories that support Competition Law & Economics will be discussed from a historical perspective.

Substantive law: Articles 101 and 102 TFEU

These two advanced courses aim at analysing the application of Articles 101 and 102 TFEU in light of the latest case law and decisions from European and National Competition Authorities. Departing from the general description of the functioning of competition rules, this course focuses on complex legal, economic and practical issues encountered in the application of these rules. Summer school participants will discuss the relevant case law and decisions during the course also confronting their knowledge and perception of specific problems.

Competition economics

The aim of this advanced course is to provide the participants with a practical understanding of how economics is used in antitrust law assessments. The course will look into the modern usage of economic tools for the enforcement of competition rules and will encourage active participation in order to foster the creation of an interactive environment.

Public Antitrust enforcement

The aim of this advanced course is to analyse the dynamic of public enforcement in the European Union. Moreover, it will focus on specific procedural problems that arise in practice, adopting a practical approach.

The Commission is charged with the enforcement of EU competition law and, since the entry into force of Regulation 1/2003, also National Competition Authorities are empowered to enforce the same competition rules. The course will also take into consideration the policy background that characterises the EU of competition law enforcement system.

Private Antitrust enforcement & collective redress

The aim of this advanced course is to provide knowledge and practical guidance in relation to damage claims resulting from infringement of EU competition law in pan-European cases. The workshop will also discuss the EU Directive for damage claims and relevant case law as part of the legal framework applicable to private enforcement of Competition Law in Europe. The course will also give guidance on Collective Redress legislations and their practice in Europe.

How to sessions

The four practical sessions of the Summer School will give participants insights and guidance on: i) How to submit a complaint before the Competition Authorities and how to file a claim; ii) How to apply for Leniency; iii) How to assess antitrust damages; iv) How antitrust compliance programs work in practice.

Hot topics in Competition Law & economics

These two sessions will provide a summary and an authoritative outlook of the main developments in European Competition Law and Economics. Case law on European and national levels as well as relevant legislative developments that have taken place in 2015 and 2016 will be discussed with the participants.

Practical simulations

The two practical simulations will be based on the interaction with participants. The basics of each case will be presented (Dawn-raids, Court Hearings) and then the participants will have to simulate with the speaker and the team.

Cocktail-talks

Top experts from private practice, academia, business community and Institutions will discuss informally on Digital Economy & Competition Law and How to submit an antitrust complaint - file a claim.

Presidents Round Table

A unique opportunity to discuss with Presidents of the Italian, French, Luxembourg, Spanish and Basque Competition Authorities key issues and new developments of Competition Law enforcement in the EU.
